Viewing cable 08MANAGUA1072, UNGA 63: NICARAGUAN FOREIGN MINISTRY - "MIGUEL"

If you are new to these pages, please read an introduction on the structure of a cable as well as how to discuss them with others. See also the FAQs

Understanding cables

Every cable message consists of three parts:

- The top box shows each cables unique reference number, when and by whom it originally was sent, and what its initial classification was.
- The middle box contains the header information that is associated with the cable. It includes information about the receiver(s) as well as a general subject.
- The bottom box presents the body of the cable. The opening can contain a more specific subject, references to other cables (browse by origin to find them) or additional comment. This is followed by the main contents of the cable: a summary, a collection of specific topics and a comment section.

To understand the justification used for the classification of each cable, please use this WikiSource article as reference.

Discussing cables

If you find meaningful or important information in a cable, please link directly to its unique reference number. Linking to a specific paragraph in the body of a cable is also possible by copying the appropriate link (to be found at theparagraph symbol). Please mark messages for social networking services like Twitter with the hash tags #cablegate and a hash containing the reference ID e.g. #08MANAGUA1072.

D'ESCOTO HAS CHANGED"

¶1. (C) SUMMARY: On August 6, EmbOff met with Ambassador Magda Enriquez Beitler, the Senior Advisor to Miguel D'Escoto Brockmann, President Elect for the 63rd General Assembly of the United Nations ("UNGA"). Enriquez sought to convey two clear messages: first, she will be the focal point for relations between the United States and Nicaragua regarding UNGA bilateral issues; second, D'Escoto "is a changed man." Changed or not, D'Escoto is not likely to tone down his anti-U.S. rhetoric at UNGA when given the opportunity. END SUMMARY

¶2. (C) Ambassador Magda Enriquez Beitler, a dual United States - Nicaraguan citizen, is the main liaison between the United States Embassy and the Nicaragua Foreign Ministry's Office of International Organizations. Educated at Temple University in Philadelphia and politically aligned with the Sandinista Party ("FSLN"), she was a Nicaraguan representative to the UN in the 1980s. With the return of the FSLN to power, Enriquez is currently the Director of Nicaragua's Office of International Organizations with responsibilities in the following areas: UN Mission, Organization of American States, International Summits and Non-Aligned Nations Movement. She will join D'Escoto in New York as his Senior Advisor, but will retain her position in Nicaragua, with her three deputies handling the portfolio.

¶3. (SBU) Enriquez conveyed her strong desire to work with the United States in advance of the September UNGA session to address difficult issues "off the table, because it is better to solve problems before they happen." The issues that she believes will consume the UNGA session include: Food Prices and Subsidies, Climate Change, Africa Aid, and UNGA reform.

¶4. (SBU) Regarding UNGA reform, Enriquez explained that UNGA President-Elect D'Escoto wants to "reform the UN General Assembly using outside experts that do not represent any particular national government." These independent experts, such as scientists and economists, would participate in what D'Escoto calls an "interactive, thematic dialogue" to bring out the best ideas for reform. D'Escoto, who is a Catholic Priest under Vatican sanction (ref B), wants to "bring the prophets" or independent experts from "the U.S., Nicaragua, Algeria" to bring "new vision and purpose" to the UNGA.

¶5. (C) Enriquez believes that Miguel D'Escoto has "changed" - that he is not the same virulent critic of the United States, capitalism and globalization that he was during the Sandinista revolution. Even though he is almost 75 years old, Enriquez observed that D'Escoto "is still a good student, and changes his mind" when presented with new information. She explained that D'Escoto has been working on his UNGA opening address since his candidacy was announced, constantly revising and rewriting it. The speech sets the tone for the UNGA session and will be the platform for announcing the priorities and UNGA reforms D'Escoto seeks. She said that he has read several different versions of the speech to her on multiple occasions, and that D'Escoto has been open to her constructive criticisms.

¶6. (C) COMMENT: Post believes that Enriquez was placed in her new UNGA position to be a moderating influence on D'Escoto. As a dual U.S.-Nicaraguan citizen, however, she is not completely trusted by small circle that surrounds President Ortega. Other figures such as Presidential Advisor Paul Oquist, a former UN system official, are likely to also have input. In her role as D'Escoto's Senior Advisor and confidant, Amb. Enriquez would not explain what she meant regarding a "new vision or purpose" for the UNGA body. When pressed for specific themes from his most recent draft of his opening address, she admitted that everything could change and that "he will not have a final version ready until just before he speaks." We suspect that a mercurial D'Escoto at the UNGA bully pulpit, backed by an increasingly bellicose Ortega, is not likely to tone down his anti-U.S. rhetoric when given the opportunity.
